DECISION IS HERALDED

Locarno Conference May Be Backed Down if Situation Turns Better

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1926, by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington—America may not be a member of the league of nations, but officialdom here is watching with unprecedented interest the crisis that has been reached in the organization of the league. Inveterate foes are getting ready to say that the present situation proves their prophecies of constant intrigue. Friends of the league are nervous.

When the situation calms down and a settlement has been reached, there will be a recurrence of league discussion. For the league either will have survived the biggest decision it has had to make since its inception, or it will have relegated the structure to a secondary place in international relations, something which ever since the Locarno conference has hardly been believed could happen.

HOW TO DIVIDE?

The clamor for permanent seats on the council of the league recalls the debates in Paris at the time the Versailles covenant was being drafted.
How was the division to be made between large and small powers? On that question nearly every international league or organization in past history has been wrecked. It was thought at Paris that the problem had been solved when arrangements were made to seat permanently five big powers—the United States, Japan, Great Britain, France, Italy—and the other nations were to be allowed seats on a rotating basis.

The question would not have arisen
now but for the fact that Germany was permitted to enter the league.
Germany is regarded as a big power.
A permanent seat for Germany had everybody in Paris as an ultimate goal. It was one of the principal arguments against the league in the American campaign of 1920, namely, that without Germany it would simply be a league of victors and late allies.

CLAMOR IS GREAT

With Germany in it there would be an impression of fraternity at least.
Germany was finally induced to apply for membership as a result of the Lo-carno conference. Now European statesmen with an eye for possible contingencies want to add to the council, France wants her ally, Poland, to become a permanent member. Spain is advanced as a possible permanent member by Great Britain. China is urged as a member, too. Diplomats know how much China is under the thumb of the great powers anyhow.

The dispute may be settled by making the council much larger than it is.
Most of the decisions of the council can be used as a precedent. The requirement of unanimous consent,
which is an objection to the league,
can be removed by an additional objection, however, sometimes removes embarrassments.

Sometimes an objection might be made on behalf of France by Poland which France herself might not wish to interpose. The enlargement of the council presents an issue that will not die down. Because no matter what settlement is reached now, the smaller countries will continue to ask for representation.

The spirit of Locarno which spread over Europe for a while has given way to a recrudescence of suspicion.
If the statesmen show now that they can handle a controversy of this kind their cause in the United States will be materially strengthened but if more evidence of mutual distrust is offered the chances are the foes of the league will get considerable ammunition out of it,
and that means more talking points for the campaign of those who are fighting the rejection of the league who voted for American adherence to the world court.

HERRIOT GETS BID BUT SAYS PREMIER BEST

Demand for Return of Vet- eran Statesman Sweeps Through Country

Paris. (AP)—Premier Briand today
accepted a mandate from President Dumergue to form his ninth cabinet to succeed the one which fell last Saturday.

The veteran statesman was called in after Edouard Herriot, radical leader, had declined to attempt
the formation of a
"concentration"
ministry of the left
and had recommended that Bri-
and be sent back to the league meetings in Geneva with all his former power.

The Briand ministry resigned Saturday after failure of a vote of confidence on the sales tax provision of its budget program.

Paris. (AP)—Edouard Herriot, radical party leader, today declined to accept from President Dumergue the mandate to form a cabinet.

He proposed that Briand be summoned, saying the premier must return to the league meetings at Geneva with all the prestige he had before the fall of his government.

titled to a share of delinquent taxes
until the county has received its portion, the supreme court held in the Bear Bluff case. Dismissal of a complaint by the town of Bear Bluff was sustained.

The workers' list thus far includes:

WAUSAU CASES

The damage cases of Mr. and Mrs.
William Harding against Byron Jesse of Wausau, arising from an automobile accident were reversed. A judgment against the estate of Philip Menzner, Wausau, was affirmed. The court upheld the validity of the will of Elmer Weidman, Reedsburg.
In cases in which no opinions were handed down, the court denied Mrs.
Reinhilda La Blanc, of Eau Claire, a divorce and upheld judgments against Walter W. Smith, Gillett, Wisconsin, in favor of John S. Allen and against the Maple Valley Mutual Home Fire Insurance company, in favor of J.
L. Reeves and Sol G. Pelkey, of Ocon-to county.

RULE ON HIGHWAY

The sections of the state pure food laws relating to adulteration were upheld by the court, which affirmed
the conviction of the Day-Borgwall company of Milwaukee on the first count of an indictment and reversed
the conviction on the second count.

The changing of a state trunk highway route in Monroe county was held to be a relocation and merely a change in an existing highway system, and not a new highway. The court sustained the denial of an injunction to prevent construction of the road.

Albert Praccato, Waukesha, was granted a new trial on a charge of bootlegging his conviction being reversed by the supreme court.

DEADLOCK STILL PERILS PARLEY

Germany Firm While Spain Threatens to Quit if Not Given Seat

Geneva. (AP)—With the league of nations assembly in a tangle arising out of Germany's request for membership and the demands of four other countries—Poland, Spain, Brazil and China—for permanent seats in the league council, the assembly was in recess today.

Only subcommittees of both the assembly and the council were at work,
and they were dealing with routine matters. There was, however, no cessation in the conversation among delegates regarding the situation surrounding permanent council seats.

GERMANY STILL BALKS

When adjournment was taken Monday, no time was set for the next session. It is possible that there will be none until the return of Aristide Briand, who left Sunday night for Paris to discuss the crisis brought about by the downfall of his cabinet.
There has been no abatement in claims by the representatives of the various countries which are seeking permanent seats in the councils. The Germans hold steadfastly to their ground that no seats shall be awarded until Germany has been installed.

The only permanent members now
are, Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy.

SPAIN MAY GO OUT

Spain's representatives have reiterated that if she is not honored simultaneously with Germany they will leave the league. The Brazilian delegation argues that they cannot allow the entire continent of South America to remain without permanent representation.

No less insistent is Poland, and she is backed strongly by France and hoping also for the support of Austen-Chamberlain, British foreign secretary Viscount Lush, Japanese ambassador, to France is sponsoring the claim of China. Sweden, a nonpermanent member is declared to be unalterably opposed to any enlargement of the council at the present time except for the admission of Germany. Since the vote of the council must be unanimous, Sweden's negative ballot would scotch the plans of any of the applicants. For admittance to the assembly, a two thirds vote is required.

POISON PLOT SUSPECTED IN LOVE TANGLE

Husband and Former Wife of Victims, Now Married, Held for Murder

Flora, Ill. (AP)—Investigation into the deaths of Mrs. Laura Malinsky and Aphile Bible, described as having occurred under "mysterious circumstances," continued today with the former husband of one and the former wife of the other, who are now married, held in the county jail on murder charges.

The two held without bail for a grand jury are: Ernest L. Malinsky, a locomotive engineer, and his second wife, Mrs. Elsie Bible Malinsky. They are charged in an information filed by the state's attorney, with murder of his first wife, reported by a biological chemist to have died from poisoning.

ANALYZE VITAL ORGANS

Mrs. Malinsky died Sept. 26, and the information forming the basis of the murder charges was obtained through exhuming of the body Dec. 11, and analysis of vital organs.

Little is known by authorities concerning the death of Bible who died about a year and a half ago. His widow, the present Mrs. Malinsky, was married to the engineer about two weeks after the death of Malinsky's first wife.

TO EXHUME BODY

While a Clay-co grand jury at Lowville takes up the investigation into the death of Mrs. Malinsky today, Coroner Halladay plans to arrange for exhuming the body of Bible, he said. Mrs. Malinsky's death occurred following an illness after eating some watermelon.

Officials said the poison Mrs. Mal-insky was reported to have died from,
was the same kind of poisoning used in the Hight-Sweeten case which stirred southern Illinois about a year ago.

establishment had obtained an injunction against police interference,
the raiders chopped the bar smashed
the mirror glass and other equipment and then emptied beer into the gal-

men what they could and could not

Murphy, who led the raid, decided it would not prevent him from stopping

Minnesota, before he was admitted to the Wisconsin bar "falls short of what

UNITY IS MAIN NEED OF CITY, WEIGLE ASSERTS

"Purposeless Pep Is Piffle," Community Evangelist Tells Audience

"A city's future prosperity depends upon the ability of its citizens to see the intangible principle called unity," declared Dan Weigle, St. Paul, famed community engineer, in an address entitled the "Community Clearing House" at a joint banquet of Rotary, Lion and Kiwanis clubs Monday night at the Conway hotel. Mr. Weigle will be in Appleton all this week to conduct the great community civic week program from March 7 to 13. The Lions club was awarded a silver loving cup by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce for having the largest percentage of its members present at the banquet. The Kiwanis club was in second place with 13 per cent of its membership in attendance. The Rotary club had 48 per cent of its members present. Lions scored 50 per cent.

Mr. Weigle pointed out four elements service clubs can contribute to make any community a united and happy city. They were acquaintance, club, friendship, partnership, and leadership. Each of these principles develops from the strengthening of the one immediately preceding it, the speaker said. Friendships ripen from service club acquaintanceships and from friendships develop partnerships.

ALL ARE PARTNERS
Speaking of partnership in its broader meaning, Mr. Weigle declared there is no community where people can live in harmony unless they must all be partners in the upbuilding of their city. Leadership develops from partnership, and it is the leaders of the community who are supporting its chamber of commerce and sacrificing their time and energy to try and better city conditions. About two per cent of the population of a city includes its civic and business leaders, the speaker said.

The chamber of commerce in any community is an institution which should rank next to the home, the church and the school in importance. Mr. Weigle said. It is the one place where men of different creeds, different business, different different clubs and lodges and different stations in life may gather on a common ground—that of the upbuilding of the city in which they live. The local chamber of commerce is the common meeting ground of the community clearing house for Appleton, Mr. Weigle said.

CITIES UNITY POWER
The "community evangelist" showed that the United States today is a strong and powerful nation because its people believed that through unity comes accomplishment. The same thing must be true of the citizens of any town, he continued, that place is to thrive and prosper. "In some cities every man is working for his own selfish interests while other cities are making money because they have realized the benefits of a united citizenship."

Mr. Weigle said that just as the various states submerge their interests and common interests in the great national clearing house at Washington, D. C., for the good of the country, so the citizens of any town should be united in supporting their community clearing house, the chamber of commerce.

The speaker said he had known of cases where public spirited chamber of commerce members had helped save a community in their town, not for the good of any certain individual, but for the good of the community as a whole. It is the same spirit which makes Americans do everything to serve their country that should also prevail in impelling citizens to make great sacrifices to serve their community.

MUST HAVE GOAL
"A chamber of commerce must have definite objects to work for—it must have a goal," declared Mr. Weigle. "Too many communities are loaded up with lots of pep, but have no definite program. Purposeless pep is piffle."
"I know that this city is a better community because of its chamber of commerce," Mr. Weigle said. "Appleton is known all over the middle west for its splendid publicity. Your great duty is to build up your chamber of commerce and try to stimulate new facts in it. When it is then has a small and inactive chamber of commerce there is something wrong with that community."
"Everybody in this city is sold on Appleton and the next step in our accomplishments is to sell Appleton to the outside," concluded Mr. Weigle.

JUNIOR SCHOOL STUDENTS SPEND 27 CENTS WEEKLY

Guy Barlow Estimates Roosevelt Pupils Dispose of $1,500 Annually

Approximately $1,500 is spent on amusements by the 150 pupils of five classes in the Roosevelt junior high school during the school year, according to a report on spending money given by Guy Barlow, instructor in the manual arts department of the Roosevelt school, at a meeting of Roosevelt Parents Teachers Association at the school auditorium Monday night. One teacher said figures given by the pupils in her five classes indicated that the average amount of spending money is about 27 cents per pupil each week.

Mr. Barlow's talk was for the purpose of securing cooperation between the school and the parents for the betterment of the individual child, and attempted to show the parents some of the problems of the teacher in the school due partly at least, to causes which might be remedied in the home.

He enumerated the money spent by the students for chewing gum, candy and other individual indulgences. Miss Ferna Taylor of the domestic arts department of the Roosevelt school, discussed the thrift system in the schools, and asked the parents to encourage the children to save money in the school banking system that they might establish the habit of thrift. She also spoke of the attendance and tardiness problem in the school, and asked for cooperation in preventing tardiness and alleviating the absence problem where it was possible.

Sometimes complaints will be made to the teachers by parents concerning too heavy assignments, on some other difficulty that the children tell of at home, Miss Taylor said. Often the children have obtained wrong impressions and give inaccurate reports to their parents, she added, and appealed to the parents to verify these reports before censuring the school.

Miss Taylor and Mr. Barlow represented the faculty in presenting these problems of the teacher and asking for cooperation from the parents. An open forum followed the talks, and questions asked by the parents were discussed.

Do You Know How To Make Pecan Pralines?

Cream candies occupy a unique position among confections in this country and the most popular of all is the pecan praline.
Most people have the erroneous idea that pralines are difficult to prepare and that the necessary ingredients are costly.
This is not at all true. One pound of brown sugar, one-half pound of pecans, one spoon of butter, and four tablespoons of water will make a good supply of pralines.
Try your hand at this candy making. The recipe, along with over 70 other candy recipes, is contained in the Candy Cook Book which this Bureau has for free distribution.

MUSICIAN SEES SYMPHONIC JAZZ AS PASSING FAD

L. E. Manoly, Formerly With Wagner, Says New Jazz Is Far From Original

New York—Symphonic jazz, which now is fighting for a foothold in the highest of American musical circles, is nothing but a fad, without any symptoms of originality, and is doomed to the oblivion that comes to all passing fancies.

So believes L. E. Manoly, who once played under Richard Wagner, the great composer, and for forty-six consecutive years has been a member of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

"Jazz symphony," he laughed, "Why? Jazz is just a rhythmic affair. Rhythm has always been here. There is no originality about symphonic jazz—it is taken from other compositions. 'If one is to compose one must have original ideas. This jazz fad now is just to give our American composers a chance. But it will not last. If America is to produce a great composer, its artists will have to get away from jazz.'

With these observations and a snap of the fingers, Manoly dismissed the subject. What was jazz to a man who had studied under Gustav Mahler and Anton Bruckner and played not only under Wagner and Brahms but most of the world's other great conductors during the past half century?

"It was back in 1874, in Vienna, that I was at a bass fiddle in Wagner's orchestra," Manoly said. "His works were little known then and his conducting was unusually intense as he strove to impress his interpretations."

A year or so later, Manoly came to this country and it is a peculiar coincidence that in 1877 he played in the Philharmonic orchestra then conducted by Leopold Damrosch, father of Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony Orchestra, who recently introduced Gershwin's Jazz Concerto in F.

Theodore Thomas, whom some credit with having done more for orchestral music in North America than any other conductor, was head of the Philharmonic orchestra in 1880, when Manoly became a regular member.

In those days, the orchestra was operated on a cooperative basis by the members, with a board of directors that handled its financial affairs. Manoly became a director during his first year and still is a member of the board.

"It was a hard struggle, but we were glad of the opportunity for art's sake," he said. "Rarely did we finish the season with funds to divide among the members. The conductors then virtually were on the same basis as the members, but Thomas gave up his share of receipts several times for credit."

Manoly said that he had seen the showing of "The American Venus," the picture starring Miss Fay Lamphier, the American Venus of 1925.

Watch Your Breakfast

Eat food that supplies
"balanced" ration
after night's fast

HOW you feel all morning depends largely on what you eat for breakfast. Thousands have unenergetic forenoon because of wrong breakfast eating.

To feel right, you must have well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than plain toast. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

the players and he was not the only conductor to do this.

Most of the musicians then played in other organizations and on odd occasions in order to earn enough to live. Now the society is a membership organization and the players are paid salaries. This remuneration is much better Manoly said, and players now give their entire time to the society.

THERMOMETERS AND COMMON SENSE

It's a cold morning.
How did you know?
Did you look at the thermometer or did your tingling fingers shout the news? Perhaps the thermometer verified your own opinion but you knew it was cold before you looked. Your common sense told you. Exactly!

When you take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound or any other medicine - how do you know it helps you? Do you ask the neighbors? Do you try to figure it out on a scientific basis? Certainly not.

You feel better and your common sense tells you what caused it. Science may confirm your own opinion, but you knew it all the time.

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Then judge for yourself, The Third Generation.

Mrs. W. O. Blewett, Route B, Box 187a, Lakeland, Florida, says: "I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was a girl. My mother had taken it, also my grandmother used it in her family for her eight daughters and herself. I think this medicine does more for women than anything else I know of. I recommend it to my friends and several have taken it because of my recommendation."

Cites Opportunities Appleton Offers After Completion of School

The importance of citizenship was the topic of the talk by Dan Weigle, vice president of the Appleton High School Monday morning. Mr. Weigle, one of the chief educators of the high school, stressed the importance of a young man's duty to the community of Appleton, with the ultimate aim of being the greatest asset to the city.

The cost of education is great, Mr. Weigle said, and it is the least a student can do to repay his parents and the taxpayers of Appleton for the money they have expended to give him a high school education.

Mr. Weigle considered several points in the questionnaires filled out by the high school students last week in regard to their own and Appleton's future needs, but the answers to the questions will be taken up more completely in his talk at the civic dinner on Wednesday, he said.

"STAY IN APPLETON"

To those students who said in the questionnaires that they expected to leave Appleton after graduation from the high school, Mr. Weigle said, "I do not offer them work in the fields they wished to pursue. Mr. Weigle said not to be too hasty in the decision to go away. In addition work, for instance, he said, although Appleton has not any opportunities open now within the next three or four years, perhaps there will be commercial aviation opportunities here according to the assurance of the United States government to Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber of commerce is making an effort to broaden the opportunities offered in Appleton, Mr. Weigle said, and is eager to have the high school students as well as other citizens make suggestions for their broadening program. The association has taken into consideration requirements of the schools of Appleton and it is through this effort that many of the improvements for the high school can be accomplished.

CITIZEN OPPORTUNITIES

Mr. Weigle stressed the relative opportunities offered the school student of today with those offered his own and his father's generations. The children are given opportunities never thought of years ago, and for this reason, these students should show their appreciation by boosting Appleton, he said. Particularly this week, during the Civic program and especially the dinner of commerce which has and will do much for the schools, he concluded.

John Catlin, president of the student council of the high school, has been appointed to represent the high school at the civic dinner on the needs of the high school from the standpoint of the student body.

Part of the time was spent in discussing and planning a program for the weekly boys meeting next Sunday afternoon as the club will be in charge of the entertainment for that gathering. There will be another meeting of the club Monday evening at the association building to complete plans for the Sunday program.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 3

If you are single and support in your home one or more persons closely related to you and over whom you exercise family control you are the head of a family and entitled under the revenue act of 1926 to the same personal exemption allowed a married person, $1,500. In addition a taxpayer is entitled to a credit of $400 for each person dependent upon him for chief support, if such person is either under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective. Such dependent need not be a member of the taxpayer's household. For example, an unmarried son who supports in his home an aged mother is entitled to an exemption of $1,500 plus the $400 credit for a dependent, a total of $1,900. If from choice the mother lived in another city, the son although her chief support, would be entitled only to the $1,500 exemption, plus the $400 credit.

The mother not living with him, he is not considered the head of a family. An exemption as the head of a family can be claimed by only one member of a household.

The $1,000 credit does not apply to the wife or husband of a taxpayer, though one may be totally dependent upon the other.

HI-Y TEAM GIVES CHURCH SERVICES

Boy's Organization to Present Program Throughout Spring Months

Members of the Hi-Y club deputation team conducted the entire service at Memorial Presbyterian church Sunday evening. The team will present its program at most of the Protestant churches of the city during the winter and spring months.

The Hi-Y deputation service consists of musical numbers by the club, quiet and addresses by team members. The speakers and their subjects were: Glen Opperman, "First Things First"; Carl Nelson, "Obedience"; John Frampton, "The Privilege of Living"; Edward Blessman, "Seeing Life Through"; John Catlin, "Seeing the Invisible." The quartet consists of Glen Opperman, Harold Eads, John Catlin and William Meyer.

MORRIS GIVEN NEW TITLE BUT CAN'T SAY IT

Fred R. Morris, office manager of the Appleton water department, has a new title. He cannot pronounce it, but it is a perfectly legitimate title. It is "Monsieur le Directeur du Service des Eaux."

It was conferred upon him unofficially and without any intent to harm by one Monsieur Merlin, of Paris, France, who confesses his guilt of having the same title over yonder in the "water distribution service of Paris."

M. Merlin, through some undetermined means, learned that the Appleton water department has in use a patented device for detecting leaks in water mains and now wants to know what the department thinks of it.

In M. Merlin's funny English, probably gained through the use of a pocket dictionary, he respectfully requests the name and address of the constructor in the way I can ask him a notice and the bill of fare."

For this information, M. Merlin informs Mr. Morris, "I beg you to

HOUDINI BOOKED FOR LONG CHICAGO STAY

Exposures and demonstrations of trickery and delusions practiced by fake mediums and spiritualists will feature a program to be presented by Harry Houdini, world famous magician and a native of this city at an extended engagement at the Princess theater, Chicago, beginning Monday, March 8. The former Appleton man has devoted 35 years of his life to studying spiritualism and the methods of mediums. One section of his program will be a number of the seances in which fraud mediums of the past have secured thousands of dollars from their deluded subjects.

A leak detector is in use here, but it is as uncertain as M. Merlin's English. Leaks are determined through the means of vibration listened to through ear phones. It does not measure the extent of the leak. This is said to be possible, however, by the use of a pitometer.

SUCCESS BASED ON FRIENDSHIP, SAYS WRISTON

Lawrence College Head Addresses Gathering at Milwaukee Y. M. C. A.

Five essentials of real friendship were explained to an audience of men and boys in the lobby of the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. building Sunday afternoon by Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college. His subject was "Friendship as a Test of Success."

"The first essential," he said, "is to be fit for friendship. To be healthy and vigorous and consequently optimistic. The second is to possess self-control. The man with a passionate temper will lose in a momentary flareup the friendship which has been built through years. The third essential is the capacity to subordinate the lower to the higher, the cultivation of the rational mind. The fourth essential is a sense of proportion. Lastly, there must be the Christian spirit of love to do something for others."

"If, when you come to maturity, you have learned to take care of yourself and be cheerful; if you have learned to control yourself in accordance with some great law of life; if you are master of yourself; if you have developed, above all else, your mind; if you have learned not to ride a hobby, but to keep your sense of proportion; if you have learned to serve and sacrifice for others; then you have learned how to be a friend, and in so doing you have made of your life a success."

HAGMAN GIVES TALK TO CEDAR VIEW P. T. A.

Hilker, Palma Balthazar and Alvin Hilker; "The Life of E. F. Hayward," E. Brunsberg; songs, Alice and Orval Finger and Elmer Brunsberg; Palma Balthazar and Alvin Hilker; readings, Leonard Matz, Miss Miller, Donna Pinkle and Elmer Brunsberg.

The program committee consisted of Mrs. Frank Finger, president; Mrs. Fred Ziemer, secretary; E. Knapp, secretary and Edward Witt, treasurer. Mrs. A. Young, Mrs. Edward Hilker, Mrs. William Hilker were appointed members of the program committee for the next meeting on April 9 and Mrs. A. Witt, Mrs. Bulwitz and Mrs. E. Knapp were appointed members of the refreshment committee.

BECKLEY EXPLAINS LOAN ASSOCIATION

Plans and purposes of the Appleton Building and Loan association were explained by George Beckley, secretary of the organization, in a talk at the regular monthly meeting of the Appleton Postoffice association Saturday evening at the postoffice. It was decided to change the meetings from the first Saturday in the month to the third Saturday. This was done because the former time comes at the end of a heavy mailing week and postoffice employees feel they could derive more benefit if they could attend meetings when they are not so fatigued. The next meeting will be April 17.

THE EVENING SKY IN MARCH

This map shows the heavens as they appear at 9 p. m. March 1, 8 p. m. March 15 and 7 p. m. March 31 in latitude 35 degrees north. As a change of a few degrees in latitude makes little difference in the appearance of the heavens it is practically for any part of the United States or southern Canada. To view the stars as they appear in the heavens hold the map over the head with the top to the north.

At the time mentioned the constellations of winter with their many brilliant stars of first and second magnitude will be found in the western part of the heavens. Orion, the finest of all the constellations, is now far over in the southwest.

"If, when you come to maturity, you have learned to take care of yourself and be cheerful; if you have learned to control yourself in accordance with some great law of life; if you are master of yourself; if you have developed, above all else, your mind; if you have learned not to ride a hobby, but to keep your sense of proportion; if you have learned to serve and sacrifice for others; then you have learned how to be a friend, and in so doing you have made of your life a success."

To the northwest of Orion and low in the west may be seen the Hyades, in Taurus containing the ruddy, first magnitude star Aldebaran, the Bull's Eye, while not far away to the northwest of the Hyades will be found the far-famed group of the pleiades, the Seven Sisters, Auriga, the Character, with its brilliant yellow Capella, the She-Goat, is still high in the western sky. Close to Capella on the southwest is the little triangular group of stars known as the Kkds.

TVINS AND DOG STAR
Castor and Pollux, the twins, in Gemini will be found due south of the zenith at this time, while still further south and on the meridian at 8 p. m. on March 14 is the Little Dog Star, Procyon.

Sirius, the brightest star in the heavens, known familiarly as the Dog Star, in the constellation of Canis Major, the Greater Dog, lies to the southwest of Procyon forming with this star and the reddish, first magnitude star Betelgeuse in Orion to the northwest a large triangle with sides nearly equal in length.

High in the eastern sky at this time will be seen the zodiacal constellation of Leo, one of the spring group, easily identified by its familiar Sickle with the first magnitude star, Regulus, at the end of the handle. Ursa Major, the Greater Bear, which contains the Big Dipper with its Pointers to the North Star, is now swinging high into the northeastern heavens as the W. Cassiopeia sinks to the northwest below the North Pole.

No planets are now visible in the evening sky, with the exception of Mercury which will reach its greatest distance east of the sun on March 14 and which may possibly be seen for about a week before and after that date low in the west in the evening twilight.

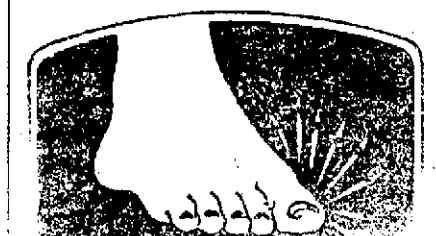

Venus is now a magnificent object in the southeastern sky before sunrise and attains its greatest brilliancy on the 14th. Jupiter also is in the morning sky in Capricornus not far distant from Venus.

On March 22 the two planets will be in conjunction, Venus passing to the north of Jupiter. The ruddy planet Mars passes from Sagittarius to Capricornus this month and will be found in the morning sky before sunrise some distance southwest of Jupiter and Venus. Saturn is now in Libra far to the west of the other planets and will be due at 5 p. m. March 1.

CROWDS ATTEND TRINITY EVENT

Prominent Out-of-town Ministers Speak Before Big Congregation

Large numbers of people attended the three services at Trinity English Lutheran church Sunday when the first anniversary of dedication was celebrated. Approximately 400 persons were served at the dinner and about 250 were served at the supper given by the Women's Missionary society in connection with the celebration.

The Rev. Paul H. Roth of North-western Seminary, Minneapolis, was the speaker at the main service at 10:30 Sunday morning. Special music was given throughout the service by the junior and senior choirs. A trio composed of Mrs. Edward Eilen, Edward Keuther and Miss Agnes Jansen sang a number at the vesper services on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. G. Keller Rubrecht, president of the Synod of the Northwest, Minneapolis, was the speaker in the afternoon. His subject was Can the Church Fail?

The Rev. H. J. Currens of the Chicago Lutheran Seminary was the speaker at the evening vesper services because of the absence of the Rev. David Luther Roth of New London who was unable to be present at the services. Special music and hymns were given during both vesper services.

If Teeth Lack Gleam
Just Do This
Gives sparkling whiteness quickly

Please accept full 10-day tube free of this remarkable new method that leading dental authorities urge... note the difference in teeth and gums as dingy film coat goes.

The prettiest smile becomes ugly when teeth look clouded. Now modern science restores "off color" teeth to dazzling whiteness.

It's been found that dingy teeth come simply from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film old-type dentifrices did not successfully remove. That's why brushing failed you.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a sort of slippery coating. Beneath it are the white teeth you envy.

It absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. It invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea because it breeds bacteria.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, a scientific combatant has been found. Leading dentists widely urge it. All druggists have it. 10-day test sent free.

They are Mrs. Herbert Harper of Neenah, Lawrence of Appleton, and Miss Mildred of Indianapolis. There are also six grandchildren, Vivian, Lloyd and Marian Harper, Helen McGrath and Lois and Dorothy Sue Lloyd.

MODERN COMPANY PLANS IMPROVEMENTS

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—The Modern Manufacturing company is planning extensive improvements this year. It is expected that many new machines will be installed and more help employed. The factory is producing a capacity limit and its owners state that they have more orders than they are able to fill.

The plant has an output of about 400 or 500 silk garments each week and a like number of cotton pieces.

Waving and Curling Dries Life from Hair

The constant curling and waving demanded by present styles in bobbed hair, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, and full of dandruff; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

Since girls just must curl and wave the hair to appear their prettiest, try "Danderine" to offset any bad effects. After the first application your hair will take on new life and that healthy youthful lustre, become incomparably soft, wavy and appear twice as thick and abundant. Falling hair stops and dandruff disappears.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing "Danderine" from any drug store or toilet counter will do wonders for any girl's hair. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

FOR GOITRE

There is just enough of the right kind of iodine in deep sea water to check and help reduce Goitre and bring beneficial action to the thyroid gland.

Try Ocean-O, a concentrated deep sea water with the excess of common salt removed.

It's a great blood, nerve and gland tonic because it supplies the entire system with just the vitalizing mineral elements it lacks. It builds you up. If it doesn't, get your money back from Voigt's Drug Store or any drugstore anywhere. Ocean-O is so concentrated that a teaspoonful in half a glass of water is usually enough—that's why a 10 ounce bottle lasts a long time.

STAGE And SCREEN

POPULAR PLAY NOW GREAT FILM DRAMA

Once more a well-beloved and successful stage play has increased its popularity in its translation to the screen. "The Man Who Came Back," produced by William Fox from the play by Jules Eckert Goodman and story by John Fleming Wilson, began a four day's run at The New Bijou Theatre yesterday and was well liked by those who attended the opening performance. There is no question of its high entertaining value, thanks to Emmett Flynn, the director, and a capable cast, headed by milling George O'Brien and Dorothy Mackaill. The leading players are given excellent support by Ralph Lewis, Cyril Chadwick and other able screen favorites.

"The Man Who Came Back" relates a few crowded months in the life of a young millionaire, son of an indulgent millionaire father. O'Brien appears as the son and gives an interesting portrayal of a jazz-crazy, never-do-well early in the picture. He quarrels with a companion during the height of a wild party and knocks him out. Bills pile upon bill until his father is well nearly distracted. He sends the boy to San Francisco to work in a shipyard but the youth, for spite, allows himself to sink lower and lower until he finally reaches the very bottom in a Shanghai dive. Throughout his descent he drags with him a girl, played by Miss Mackaill, who becomes addicted to drugs while he succumbs to liquor.

Then he attempts to rise from the mire and there is hope that he has rehabilitated himself in Hawaii, but one dramatic incident after another is hurled into the plot until the case looks hopeless. The snobbery of an aristocratic aunt complicates matters in a tragic manner. There is a splendid thrill as well as a surprise in the closing twist. "The Man Who Came Back" is well worth anybody's seeing.

REX BEACH NOVEL IS SCREENED HERE

Rex Beach's thrilling novel of the Alaskan gold rush has finally been brought to the screen. Frank Lloyd who gave us "The Sea Hawk" and other fine screen dramas, was the producer as well as director, with First National sponsoring the production. It opened at the Elite Theatre yesterday.

Dealing with the romance and the struggle that was the gold rush to the Yukon in 1897 and 1898, "Winds of Chance" presents the first accurate and big conception of the event that brought thousands of eager men and women into the Arctic to face untold hardships in their lust for the precious ore.

Beach has long held first position among the fictionists of Alaska's frontier days and in "Winds of Chance" his best known characters are brought together in a closely woven adventure in the procession up the Yukon to Dawson City and the gold country.

In giving life to the Beach epic, Lloyd has provided not only the most pretentious out-of-doors screen play of the past decade but the most truthful pictorialization of Alaska, during the four seasons of the year, ever brought to the screen, and his production merits every right to be considered one of the supreme efforts of the screen.

Starting at Dyea, where the prospectors landed after the slow boat trip from Seattle, "Winds of Chance" follows the trail of the soundoughs over the treacherous Chilkoot Pass to the Summit, then Sheep Camp, Lake Linderman, White Horse, Miles Canyon and on up the Yukon to the mountain-walled city of Yukon and the various creeks which glittered with virgin ore.

R. H. Rogers of Milwaukee Vocational school spoke of the agencies through which vocational guidance has been carried on in a greater or less degree,
and his conclusion was that the contacts had not functioned adequately. Industry has done some valuable work in giving boys a chance to try all the jobs in a factory, combined with some educational guidance, before the final selection of where they are best fitted,
he said.

IS SCHOOLS' JOB

In some cases employment men in charge of factories are equipped to give real educational guidance, but in the end it comes back to the school to do the real job, Mr. Rogers claimed.

The high school graduate makes up only a small part of the working population of skilled workers, according to Stuart Scrimshaw who represented industry at the conference as professor of industrial relations at Marquette university and as employment and personnel man with the Kerner and Trucker Milling Machine company.
One of the big mistakes of school trained people, Mr. Scrimshaw maintained, is to choose a job, whereas they should choose an industry or an employer.

SCHOOLS BLAMELESS

Industry at the present time does not think much of the high school graduate, for he wants to climb too fast, Mr. Scrimshaw said, adding that most employers preferred the boy or girl who had completed only the eighth grade. However, he did not blame the school for this attitude of the high school students, but the social standards.

"We need skilled mechanics and the schools and colleges are becoming overcrowded," Mr. Scrimshaw said.
"The time will come when the bricklayer can command a larger salary than the college graduate, and the college graduate will become bricklayer."

He concluded that he believed in quoting to the person entering an industry the truthful statistics concerning the growth and prospects of that industry, not to discourage the person but rather to let him know the truth. In the last analysis, he said, industry does not care for the technical training that the workers have received, but rather for character and interest. The industry will do the rest. Industry at the present time does not think much of the methods of vocational guidance, but that does not mean, Mr. Scrimshaw said, that there are no possibilities in the work on the contrary, he believed that a valuable work can be accomplished
under proper management and cooperation between the schools and industry.

PYRATOL IS OFFERED TO COUNTY FARMERS

Farmers of Outagamie county have been notified by E. A. Amundson, county agricultural agent, that a carload of pyratol, a light explosive, will be unloaded for sale at Black Creek this spring. The explosive is used for land clearing purposes. Any farmer in the county may purchase up to 1-

to 40 per cent dynamite.

ALDERMEN LEAVE TO INSPECT PAVEMENT

Aldermen Charles Foss and C. E.
Smith, members of the streets and bridge committee and Robert M. Connelly, city engineer, went to Milwan-kee Monday morning to inspect several types of pavement which the common council is considering laying on Appleton streets next summer. Vi-brothane pavement is the principal type which they will study.

A public hearing will be held at an adjourned meeting of the council
Wednesday evening to give property owners of the city an opportunity of expressing their preference for the type of pavement to be laid on their particular street.

BASKETBALL "WORLDLY" CHURCH CLAIMS- PROMOTER MAY BE OUSTED

Palmyra, Ind.—Because Clyde Martin, 40, former principal of the Palmyra high school, built a community
house and organized a basketball team
and a dramatic society among the student here, he faces expulsion from the Church of Christ, of which he is a member.

Martin has been accused by an elder of the church as being "worldly and un-Christian." He is being tried before three judges, one chosen by his accuser, one by himself and one by the church. If convicted, he will lose his church membership.

Martin went to Granger College and was quite an athlete. When he became high school principal he torn out a partition in a room at the rear of the high school and turned it into a gymnasium. The school trustees didn't approve, ordered the partition rebuilt and made Martin give up his high school position.

Nothing daunted, Martin went to work and built the community house.
There he taught the boys basketball,
engineered entertainments, put on little amateur playlets.

The church elders held up their hands in horror. Recreation was worldly. Their children were being taught to go the way of all flesh.

So Martin is on trial.

OPERA COMPANY COMES HERE FROM CHICAGO

The ticket sale for Hinshaw's opera "The Marriage of Figaro," experienced a decided boom Monday and Tuesday and a large crowd will see the comic opera when it is presented in Lawrence Memorial chapel. The opera will be sung in English but none of the beauty of the music or the lyrics has been lost in the translation.

The Hinshaw company is coming here from Chicago where it sang the opera in the Shubert theater Sunday night. On Thursday evening it will sing the opera in the Pabst theater in Milwaukee.

ASK HIGH COURT TO GIVE VERDICT IN BANKS' SUIT

Attorney General Requests
Supreme Court to Expedite
Hartford Case

Madison —(AP)—The United States
supreme court has been asked to expedite the settlement of the Hartford bank tax case, involving the validity of the Wisconsin law taxing bank
stock, Attorney General Herman L.
Ekern announced Tuesday.

An effort is being made to have the case decided by the high tribunal before the summer adjournment, he said. The Wisconsin supreme court upheld the validity of the law nearly a year ago.

"A large number of the banks of the state have either compromised
their taxes with the city or paid them under protest," Mr. Ekern stated.
"The decision in the Hartford case will be conclusive on the validity of the tax under the law prior to 1923
and will have an important bearing on the question of the validity of the 1923 law, now in force. It was because of the fact that the case assumed such wide importance, not only in Wisconsin, but in Kentucky, Minnesota and several other states that the application for advancing it on the United States supreme court calendar was made."

"Kentucky case involving some of the questions raised in the Hartford case will be reached in regular order in the calendar of the court in May, and it is expected that the Wisconsin and a Minnesota bank tax case will be set down for argument at the same time."

URGES 50-YEAR SEWER PROGRAM ON COUNCIL

SURVEY SHOWS NEED FOR TWO MAIN SEWERS

Consulting Engineer Declares Present System Is Inadequate

Plans for the construction of Appleton's sewerage system to care for the city's needs for the next 50 years were outlined to the common council last week by W. G. Kirchhoffer, Madison, consulting engineer, who has completed a sewer survey of the city.

The plans provide, in brief, for the construction of two main intercepting sewers running along the Fox river, one on each side from the southwest corner of the city to the northeast corner near St. Joseph cemetery, into which practically all the city's sewage would flow; for the erection of a sewage disposal plant east of St. Joseph cemetery, and for corrections and additions to the present system in various parts of the city.

Part of this construction would be undertaken in the near future, while much of the work would not be started for some time and would be spread out over a period of years. A written report of the survey is to be prepared by Mr. Kirchhoffer and will be presented to each member of the council either this week or next.

IMMEDIATE WORK

A number of immediate recommendations were suggested by Mr. Kirchhoffer. They include:

Construction of the intercepting sewer on the north side of the Fox river from the Mason-st. outlet to the Jackson-st. outlet, below the waterworks intakes;

Construction of storm sewers on Appleton, Oneida, Morrison and Dukenes between Atlantic and Spring-st.; on Union-st. Franklin to Atlantic-st.; on Winnebago, North Division-sts to Superior-st. and on Lave, Center and Meade-sts from Pacific to Atlantic-st.;

Construction of storm sewers on all streets included in the paving program where there now are none or where the present combined sewer is less than 15 inches in diameter;

Construction of intercepting sewers on Rankin-st between Wisconsin-ave and Commercial-st so as to take the sewage out of the creek, and on Winnebago-st at offset in Harrison-st so as to remove the sanitary sewage from Atlantic-st storm sewers;

Extension of the Atlantic-st storm sewer and construction of other storm sewers in the northwest section which removes territory now tributary to the Jones park sewer, so as to relieve the Jones park sewer of its surcharge of storm water;

Construction of a relief or overflow outlet to the Jones park sewer from Prospect-ave to the river.

WOULD FOLLOW PLAN

He likewise recommended that all future work on the sewer system be carried out substantially as suggested in the plans, and that sanitary sewers be relieved of the storm water by directly connecting catch basins to storm sewers and not by just putting in overflows to them where both types of sewers are available on the same streets.

The main sanitary intercepting sewer north of the river would start on Carver-st, state trunk highway 13, 140 feet west of the city limits, to catch an area one-quarter mile wide by one-half miles long, extending north. It would run southeast by tunnel to a point near the outlet of the Jackson-st sewer, follow the drive along the river to Pierce-ave where it would again have to be tunneled under the railroad or along the river bank to Jackson-st, and thence along Water-st to Drew-st.

In this distance it would connect with the Mason, Pierce, Jones park and Oneida-st sewers. From Drew-st the intercepting sewer would go by tunnel under Lawrence college grounds to John-st where it would follow the railroad right-of-way to the Atlantic-st outlet, connecting with the Lave and John-st and College-ave sewers along the way. From here it would run along the river and cemetery grounds to the site of the sewage disposal plant, connecting with the new sanitary sewer, which would be along the eastern limits of the city, running north and south, at the city limits.

SOUTH SIDE SEWER

The intercepting sewer on the south side of the river would commence at Cherry-st. Mr. Kirchhoffer stated that it was doubtful if a sewer would ever be needed west of this point. From Cherry-st to Oneida-st the interceptor would have to cross private grounds and pass under a ravine. Part of the distance would have to be tunneled. From Oneida-st to Lave-st it would follow the line of Newberry-st which is now closed. Connections along the way would be made with Oneida, Lave and Randall-st outlets.

From this last outlet it would either cross the river at the main interceptor or continue down the river to a point opposite St. Joseph cemetery and cross there. Mr. Kirchhoffer suggested that a separate sewage disposal plant could be constructed on the south side of the river or even the complete plant be erected there.

With the survey as a basis for judgment, Mr. Kirchhoffer concluded that the present sewerage system is not satisfactory because there was a lack of proper design in the original system, because of the construction was haphazard and because it is a combined system of storm and sanitary sewers. In addition to the above, he drew the following conclusions:

That the Atlantic-st and other storm sewers have not performed the function they were intended to for the

AUDIENCE HAS GOOD TIME WITH "NO, NO, NANETTE"

Splendid Comedians, Funny Plot and Good Dancing Provide Entertainment

A lot of people complained of aching sides when they left Fischer's Appleton theatre Monday night after an hilarious evening with the intricacies of the plot of "No, No, Nanette," one of the funniest musical shows seen here in many a day. The plot itself had a lot of humor but the vaudeville antics of John Hyams and Roland Woodruff furnished the real entertainment. The company boasted a number of good looking girls and the dancing numbers were above the ordinary.

The start was not auspicious and neither the cast nor the actors were warmed up to enthusiasm until the first act was more than half over. Applause early in the evening was sparse and perfunctory but toward the end of the first half the audience and the cast got together and from that time on "a good time was had by all."

Hyams and Woodruff, neither of whom possessed anything extraordinary in singing voices, made up for any deficiency there by their skill as entertainers. Their situations in the comedy were funny and they added to the hilarity with their burlesque stunts.

Mary Vaughn, as Nanette, is a winsome girl, not hard to look at and a splendid dancer. She put a lot of pep into the production. The company included a number of able dancers, but probably the outstanding stepppers were Mildred Joy and Myrtle Miller. Both can kick a mean Charleston and both responded to numerous curtain calls. Woodruff also is a "good dancer and he knows how to get a lot of laughs with his stuff."

"No, No, Nanette" is more of a dancing comedy than a musical comedy, although several catchy airs are sung during the evening. "I Want to be Happy" and "Tea for Two" probably are the outstanding musical numbers.

There wasn't any great variety of costumes but they were flashy and pretty, setting off in a marked degree the charms of the wearers. Most everybody in the audience had an enjoyable evening and that really is the test of the worth of entertainment.

city because the storm water could not get into them quickly enough. That the Atlantic-st sanitary sewer has been heavily surcharged.

That the system can be improved greatly and the main difficulties eliminated.

That storm sewers should be constructed in advance of all future paving projects.

That no sewers under 15 inches in diameter should be used as storm or combination sewers.

He urged that all storm and sanitary sewers be constructed separately in the future.

LAST 50 YEARS

The proposed system would be adequate for the city for the next 50 years, according to Mr. Kirchhoffer. He estimated from past records and from the growth of the city in the last 15 years that the population would be approximately 42,000 in 1950. Somewhat more than 5,000 acres is included in his proposed system, which is fully capable of handling 25 persons per acre or 125,000. A population of only 75,000 or 15 persons per acre which he termed sparsely settled, would not be reached in more than 20 years, indicating that it might take even longer than 50 years to approach the limit of the system.

In speaking of industrial wastes, he suggested that the matter be allowed to rest until such time as purification plant is necessary. A local treatment at the source of the waste may be necessary then, he pointed out.

"Wastes, especially from paper-mills and industries located near the river, may as well be permitted to be discharged into the stream until the state board of health has completed some of its investigations into the treatment and disposal of such material, or until such time as it becomes necessary to clean up the river," he said.

"This opinion is concurred in by Mr. Baker, state sanitary engineer. If these wastes are not treated on the spot, the pollution or are eliminated entirely by improved processes of manufacture, they will have to be pumped into the intercepting sewers. It is probable that a method of disposing of waste will be solved before the interceptor sewer is built, and if necessary the sewer could then be increased to sufficient capacity to care for this additional load."

Appleton is planning to undertake one of the most complete sewerage projects ever attempted by any city in the state, according to Mr. Kirchhoffer. Although the industrial expense may appear great, he indicated the city would be saving thousands of dollars compared to what would have to be expended if additional sewers were constructed in the future without any regard to plans.

Young Bob Peary Will Follow In Dad's Footsteps And Make Trip To Arctic Circle

BY GENE COHN
NEA Service Writer.
Bethlehem, Pa. — "You can't be a Peary until you've crossed the Arctic Circle."

Such is the code of Young Robert Peary, son of the discoverer of the North Pole, who has set himself to chart a course that heads due north. He is here at Lehigh University taking a post-graduate course in engineering that he may be ready for the post of engineer abroad the two masted fishing schooner Morrissey which now strains restlessly at anchor off Newfoundland.

What is more, his exploring debut will be made under the command of Captain Bob Bartlett, intrepid navigator of Peary's historic expedition.

It is a modest, though alluring, venture upon which Peary, Jr., follows his father's trail. No new lands are to be sought. The little craft will go on research bent. It is the intention to study and photograph the little known narwhal, the basking shark of Greenland. Other forms of Polar sea life are to be sought and studied. The American Museum of Natural History and George P. Putnam, publisher are sponsors.

But it will give young Peary the chance of seeing for the first time the place and people which were implanted in his mind when a child, as nursery rhymes are committed to memory by other children.

THE CALL OF HIS DREAMS

Through boyhood and adolescence these dream people and dream-lands never ceased to call.

"When I was old enough to understand his stories, my father had left the sea," recalls young Peary. "He made his last trip, you may recall in 1902."

"You know, of course, that he met with an accident that made necessary the amputation of part of a foot. But he always lived among boats. We would go to the Maine coast every year."

And there, with the Maine surf drumming in his ears, the lad would sit straddled on the father's knee and hear burrowing tales of struggle through ice floes of hands seen by but a few eyes, of epic trips by sledge.

"So I was practically brought up on boats," he continues. "I think my first toy was a little boat carved for me by my father. He taught me pretty nearly everything there is to know about a ship. I guess. But he didn't urge me to follow his trail. Nor did he make any effort to discourage a life of exploration. I guess he felt that if it was in the blood it would come out."

When college days came Peary, Jr., went to Bowdoin, for it was at Bowdoin that his father studied. Peary, Sr., studied civil engineering and Peary, Jr., studied civil engineering.

Peary, Sr., was about 30 years of age when he set forth into Arctic seas. Peary, Jr., will be about 24 when he sets out in the spring.

WHAT WILL BRIBES URGE

Etah will be the objective of the "Morrissey's" cruise, and this is one spot above all others that has figured in the lore of Peary, Sr. Here it was that the great explorer met the natives for whom he had done so much and that he made his epic start.

But will young Peary be content, once he has fulfilled the obligation of a Peary to "cross the Arctic Circle"?

He does not know. He is a true son of his father, in appearance as well as in spirit. He has the Norwegian's head and the urge is in his blood.

"But I'm not sure I will go after new conquests," he says. "There are worlds to conquer within the very world we know."

"I think I will always go to sea from time to time. I don't think I could stay away. Perhaps that will be all. But who can tell what one will do five or ten years hence?"

Meanwhile he will cross the Arctic Circle. He will become a Peary.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; probably becoming somewhat unsettled in southwest portion Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The pressure is high and the weather mostly fair, with moderate temperatures this morning from Canadian northwest to the Gulf of Mexico. Some snow has fallen over the northeastern states, and the slight low pressure over Lake Superior this morning is causing snow flurries into northern Wisconsin. The indications for this section are for generally fair weather tonight and Wednesday, though with some cloudiness tonight, but no decided change in temperature, from the crest of high pressure before the western "low" develops strength to advance to this section.

Robert Peary, Jr., studies the Arctic in preparation for the American Museum of Natural History expedition which he will join in June.

Fellowship of Prayer

TUESDAY
Uncalculating Love
Read John 12:1-11. Text: 12:3. The house was filled with the odor of the ointment.

Meditation—Our motives are mixed. Love is debased when self seeking. Our golden ideal stands on feet of clay. This gospel story has been told wherever the transforming name of Jesus has gone because it illustrates love without alloy. Our hearts turn to it as flowers turn to the light. This woman had received much and acted with a love utterly uncalculating, and unselfish, in response to the perfect love of the Master. Much has been forgiven, and she learned to love much.

"What Thou has given to me, Lord, here I bring to Thee."

Odour and light, and the magic of gold.

Feet, which must follow Thee, lips which must sing Thee, limbs which must ache for Thee are they grow old."

Prayer—Eternal, holy Love, God most high, we seek to worship Thee not only in words and outward form, but in the depths of our spirits and in truth. We have only one offering; it is our poor selves; we give Thee but thine own. Steal upon us like the grace of summer evenings, like the dew on parched ground. Rest our longings in Thyself, Amen.

PARENTS CAUSE DISRESPECT FOR LAW, PASTOR SAYS

Must Pay Price for Good Government, Rev. Mr. Nuss Declares

"Render therefore unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's," Matthew 22:21, was the text of the sermon "Our Duties to God and the State," given by the Rev. E. P. Nuss, pastor of the First Reformed church, at the Sunday morning services of the church, March 7.

"The question of the relation between church and state, of one's duties to the secular and the spiritual authorities, has always been a cause of much debate among thinking people," the pastor said. "Full recognition of the lawful rights of both God and human government are given in the teachings of Jesus. God fearing Christians have always striven to render obedience to the laws of both, to do their full duties to both."

RESPECT THE LAW

"Fear God. Honor the king," rulers are to be properly honored even though they may not be at all to our liking. Rome was a corrupt, severely oppressive government that sorely abused its power. Yet Christ counsels, "Render them their dues." God lets us have the kind of government we deserve, not the kind we may wish," the preacher said. "The more righteous, God-fearing and vigilant we are, the better rulers we get. The more careless, negligent and indifferent we are in our duties to God and the state, the worse rulers they get."

"Respect for law is clearly taught by Christ. Laws are to be obeyed by all, high or low, rich or poor, whether we like them or not," the Rev. Nuss stated. "No stable government can exist where each individual is allowed to do as he may choose. Anarchy would break loose at once, and neither honor properly would be safe for a minute. The man, therefore, who chooses what laws he will obey and deliberately disobeys the rest places himself on the same level with the crooks, thugs and bandits," the minister said.

BLAMES ADULTS

To the government which gives its subjects its support at home and abroad, Mr. Nuss believes, more than a few tribute coins should be given. It may fall us in some things but reminded the people that "we also fail the government." He advised praying for the betterment of the departments of the government, and constructive criticism as more valuable than the destructive criticism offered so freely by most people.

Mr. Nuss would blame this destructive criticism on the part of the adult population for the disrespect of law and public officials by the young people of today.

"We complain a great deal about corrupt government but do we render unto Caesar the things that we rightfully owe him? Do we do our duty in praying for him? Do we do our full duty in helping to choose and elect the proper officials at the polls on primary and election day? If we wish a good government, we must pay the price, fulfill the duties of our citizenship," he concluded.

New Way to End Dangerous Cough

The most stubborn cough is relieved with the first dose, and is very often broken up entirely in 24 hours by a new method based on the famous Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs.

Here is the method: You simply take one teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but also loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. So with the cause removed, the severest cough usually disappears quickly.

Dr. King's New Discovery is for colds, chest colds, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, etc. Fine for children, too—no harmful drugs. Very economical, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for

ZWINGLI BIBLE FOUND IN SEMINARY LIBRARY

Lancaster, Pa.—(P)—A copy of one of the rarest Bibles in the world—the Ulrich Zwingli Bible—the printing of which is said to have taken four years, has been discovered in the library of the Reformed Theological Seminary here.

The Bible, according to its title page, was printed by Christopher Froeschauer in 1529. Four years before that time the first section of the volume, which is in six sections, was printed. The text was compiled by Zwingli and several other preachers of Zurich who were associated with him, and a greater part of the German text was translated from the Latin by Martin Luther. The Bible, according to historians, at the time of its publication corresponded to the popularized editions of today.

Two of the features of the book are the illustrations and the arrangement of the text. For example, the Book of Acts is placed after the Epistle of St. Paul, instead of before as is the case in printing the present-day Bibles. The majority of the illustrations are wood cuts and the characters are depicted in the dress of knights and monks of the fifteenth century. In but a few places are the characters pictured in Biblical dress, as is the case in illustrating the modern editions.

A copy of the second edition, published in 1531, also was found in the library.

SEAWEED IS TABLE DELICACY IN JAPAN

Tokyo—(P)—Seaweed in Japan is a dinner delicacy—for the Japanese. In fact, the harvesting of seaweed is one of Japan's large industries.

Of the many species of the weed, rather from the bottom of the sea, the Japanese Tangle (Laminaria Japonica) is most popular because of its flavor and refreshing taste. This weed grows abundantly in the cold seas off Hokkaido and is harvested during the summer months. The yearly harvest of Hokkaido alone is estimated at 200,000,000 pounds.

While this seaweed is relatively cheap, food chemists claim it is very nutritious and contains much "Vitamin A," the food element lacking in polished rice.

CLOSELY-GUARDED BOOK KEY TO AIR WARFARE

Dayton, O.,—(P)—If the United States were to engage in warfare tomorrow, a certain closely-guarded book would be rushed to Washington from McCook Field.

It would tell government officials how to build airplanes; exactly what to get materials; what aviation principles and ideas were sound and what were obsolete; what airplane parts should be standardized, and what should be junked.

At the field, which is the engineering division of the army air service, the book, which in reality is not a volume in the strict sense of the word, is known simply as the "War Book." Its resting place is known to only a few and access to it is impossible.

"Should war be declared tomorrow," said a post official, "we can give this book to the war department and say 'gentlemen here it is. Go out and build them. There will be no need to engage in a mad rush for verification of ideas, such as was the case when the United States entered the world war."

The book consists of four sets of drawings and specifications. The first section contains all projects and problems under experiment. The second lists every item that goes into the construction of an airplane, from the smallest screw to the largest wooden strut. Drawings show how everything is made, where materials may be obtained and all details of procurement to the finished job.

In the third section under the heading "obsolete," are listed items of airplane construction which may be used but which are no longer manufactured. The final chapter is devoted to a description of integral parts of the airplane as well as the airplane as a whole which now are obsolete.

In the Days of Pompeii

THE first known classified ads were used almost 2000 years ago—which gives this type of advertising a fairly ancient pedigree of public service.

They have been found on stone "billboards" dug up in Pompeii, the Roman city buried by a volcanic eruption.

Here is one of the "ads" discovered in Pompeii by Prof. David M. Robinson, of Johns Hopkins University:

"TO RENT, from the first day of next July, fine upper chamber and a house in the Arrius Pollio block, owned by Gnaeus Marius."

And the earliest of all "Lost and Found" ads:

"A COPPER POT is missing from the shop of Antonius. Whoever brings it back will receive 65 sesterces."

When you want to use an up-to-the-minute classified ad—A-B-C model—edition of 1926—just call one of our pleasant-voiced ad-takers!

SPINSTERHOOD

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BARBARA HAWLEY. 25, wants to see life so she gives up her fiancé, BRUCE REYNOLDS, an architect, and gets a job on the Appleton Telegraph. She meets BOB JEFFRIES, police reporter, and JEROME BALL, man about town. Bruce is with a real estate firm promoting Vale Acres, a civic residential project.

A prominent man kills himself. Barbara, covering the story, finds a red scarf she connects with a dress worn by LADIA STACY, wealthy widow. Mrs. Stacy has met Bruce and is attracted to him, so when he rejects her attentions she tells ANDREW McDERMOTT, editor of the Telegraph, that Bruce's firm is crooked. When one of the firm absconds Bruce is indicted. Barbara, using the scarf as a threat, forces Mrs. Stacy to clear Bruce.

Barbara, through her love-dorn column, advises VIOLETTA CRANBY, factory girl, on how to win a "social superior." Bruce turns out to be the "social superior" and he weds Violetta.

Barbara shares an apartment with McDermott's daughter, Fancy. Despite Barbara's warnings, Fancy elopes with him. Barbara, lonely, is lonelier than ever when a child is born to Violetta, so she takes a job on Footlights Magazine in New York.

Living in Greenwich Village, Barbara grows disgusted with the superficiality of the people she meets. One day she runs across Fancy, who awakens in her a desire to see Appleton again. She takes the first train she can. At the Conway Hotel in Appleton the morning after arrival she is told a man is waiting to see her. She goes to the mezzanine and sees someone arise from a divan in a dim corner.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER I
He was holding out his hand, but Barbara did not see it. Her eyes were on his face.

"Hello, Babe," he cried.

She stammered, "Hello, Mr.—er—Byers. How did you know I was here?"

His face wrinkled again in a grin.

"Oh, I have the hotel heat now. How have the mighty fallen! From drama editor I am demoted to the humble duties of cub. But the Telegraph is running short of help these days and we're all pressed into service, so I saw your name on the register this morning."

Barbara had recovered her breath. "It's awfully good to see you. Yours is the first familiar face I've seen since I came last night. I was beginning to think that I must have dreamed that Appleton was once my home. For there are no signs of the people I used to know here."

Byers shook his head. "Punish how a town does change in a little while. But you'll find some of your old friends at the Telegraph office. There are some new people, of course, but a few of the old ones too. Your friend Wells is gone for good—died last month. But McDermott and Jimmy, the office boys, and your friend Miss Badger, are still with the ship. I say nothing of myself and a few other humble reporters."

Barbara smiled. "I'm almost afraid to go to the office," she said, "lest it be changed, too, so much that I shan't be able to believe I ever worked there. It's a ghastly feeling, this walking about in places that were once a part of your every-day life, and finding that everything is the same, yet nothing is the same."

"You can't tell whether it is your old that has died, or the people around you."

"For heaven's sake, Barbara, brace up. That's maulin rot you're talking. Get your things and come on over to the office. You won't be allowed to feel like a dead one over there. You'll be the lion of the hour. Shouldn't wonder if Mac would demand an interview on how it feels to be a New York success, and all that."

Barbara laughed some what shrilly. But she went to get her hat.

Byers talked animatedly as they left the hotel and walked toward the Telegraph building. Barbara noticed that his skin was more parched than ever and his eyes brighter.

"By jove, Babe, we all envy you that New York job. You seem to be tapping the cream of existence right now—good job, the bright lights of Broadway, Greenwich Village apartment, independence! There's not a man on the Telegraph staff who isn't consumed with envy—not to mention Miss Badger, who turns green every time your name is repeated."

Barbara laughed again. "And what would you say, if I should tell you that New York was no better than Appleton—that I'd as soon work on the Telegraph as on the Footlights Magazine?"

Byers considered. "I'd say that you were suffering from a surfeit of the good things of this world, and didn't appreciate your blessings."

The Telegraph rush when they entered. Barbara looked eagerly about her as they stepped out of the elevator into the editorial room. She sniffed the tobacco-laden air, and her eyes shone.

Jimmy was the first to catch sight of her. He was running to the composing room with his hands full of copy when his eyes fell upon her. "Hi, there, Miss Hawley," he shouted, making a dive toward her.

The new city editor, a young man with a thin nose and stern eyes behind spectacles, raised his voice. "Hurry, hurry that copy to the composing room!"

Byers whispered in Barbara's ear. "That's Holcomb, Wells' successor—a college journalist, by God!"

Jimmy made a dash for the composing room and returned through the swinging doors like a steam engine. By this time the staff had gathered around Barbara, shaking her his picture. Then when I got back to the office, somebody had telephoned Wells and threatened libel on a story of mine. And on top of all that, they took my picture for the morgue. No wonder I didn't look like a success."

Ben Lyon, Dorothy Sebastian and Viola Dana in 'Winds of Chance'

"Well, if you'll come right downstairs now, they can snap you and perhaps get the cut through in time for the paper today," said Byers.

Barbara looked uncertain, but McDermott waved his hand. "By all means run along with Byers, Barbara. We must have that picture!"

When she returned a few minutes later, he was waiting for her. "What do you mean to do, Barbara? And how long will you be here?"

She looked at the floor. "I've done a terrible thing, Mr. McDermott. I ran away from my job without notice, and only sent a wire back saying where I had gone. To tell the truth, I didn't even think of my job till I was several hours out of New York."

"I suppose it was because I'd been to dinner with Fancy. The subject of Appleton was discussed all evening, and that night, riding back downtown, I was simply swamped with homesickness—the worst fit of the kind that I ever experienced. I rushed down and packed my things and caught a train out."

McDermott nodded.

Barbara went on, speaking low. "It seemed to me that if I didn't get a glimpse of Appleton and some of my friends, I might just as well walk right off into the Hudson. Of course, I never considered doing it. But the thought seized me that if I should, nobody much would know, and no soul would really care."

"That frightened me and I made for the train."

McDermott nodded again, without speaking.

"I'm going out to see my mother's home this afternoon," she said. "I've been heartsick for a sight of it these months."

McDermott frowned slightly.

"It's a terrible thing, being in a city by yourself," she cried suddenly. "It's a terrible thing," amended McDermott, "being in the world by yourself."

Mrs. W. B. Basing left Saturday for Eldorado to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lucille O'Shea who died Thursday. The funeral was Sunday.

Radio Users Favor Plan Of Regular Inspection

Inspection of radios when installed and periodically after that time would be of value to radio owners in reducing interference and improving reception, it was generally agreed by radio fans interviewed as to the feasibility of a radio inspector in Appleton.

The term radio inspector is applied to the practice of the government in the past is a misnomer according to one person for the position has had such limited powers that no practical work could be done. But the suggested plan of inspecting receiving sets to prevent faulty installation and operation would have many advantages it was generally believed.

Many radio receiving sets are installed by amateurs. Aerials, some times cross streets above power lines and faulty connections are made. It was said but with regular inspection this would be eliminated and in the owner of the set and of other sets would be benefited.

When there is interference people are prone to say it's the utilities companies. In this is not the biggest contributing factor in Appleton if interference is caused by the power lines it is not through lack of it is generally believed. The reason for this assumption was that the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company has inspected every 100 ft. complaint of difficulty and although these reported difficulties have been followed from the receiving set to the neighboring power lines no faults have been found it was said.

Probably 60 per cent of the homes in Appleton have radio sets and that the has been a great deal of interference from some cause this year is well known by all of them. Some of this trouble, at least, has been due to other receiving sets trying to tune in not succeeding and continuing the

CONGRESS WILL GIVE ROAD HELP

Cannon Says Country Is Protesting Against Reducing Federal Aid

Reenactment of the present federal aid law, continuing the appropriation of $75,000,000 a year for road construction, was predicted by Frank A. Cannon, executive secretary of the Good Roads Association of Wisconsin, who has just returned from Washington where he protested to congress against an attempt to change the law.

Under the federal aid road law $75,000,000 is appropriated yearly by the federal government, for use on federal aid roads in the different states. Mr. Cannon said "Wisconsin's share of this fund is $1,873,000. President Coolidge in his budget message recommended that the amount of the federal aid be reduced and that the secondary federal aid roads be eliminated from the system. There are 5,711 miles of federal aid roads in Wisconsin, of which 3,200 miles are on the secondary system.

"The sentiment throughout the country, however, seems to be overwhelmingly in favor of a continuance of federal aid, so much so that the committee on roads of the house of representatives reported unanimously in favor of the continuance of federal aid and recommended an appropriation of $75,000,000 per year for the years 1928 and 1929 as federal aid roads. There is every indication that this bill will pass both houses with little opposition, the opposition coming from a small group of eastern states.

"The Wisconsin delegation in the house, and both Senator Robert M. La Follette and Senator Irvine L. Lenroot are united in expressing themselves in favor of continuing the present federal aid law."

SHAPE PLANS FOR HUGE FIELD HOUSE AT U. W.

Madison —(AP)—Committed to a policy of "athletics for all, instead of a few," a special committee is shaping its plans for the half million dollar field house for the University of Wisconsin.

A preliminary report of the progress being made was presented to the constructional development committee of the board of regents this week by the committee headed by George Little, director of athletics.

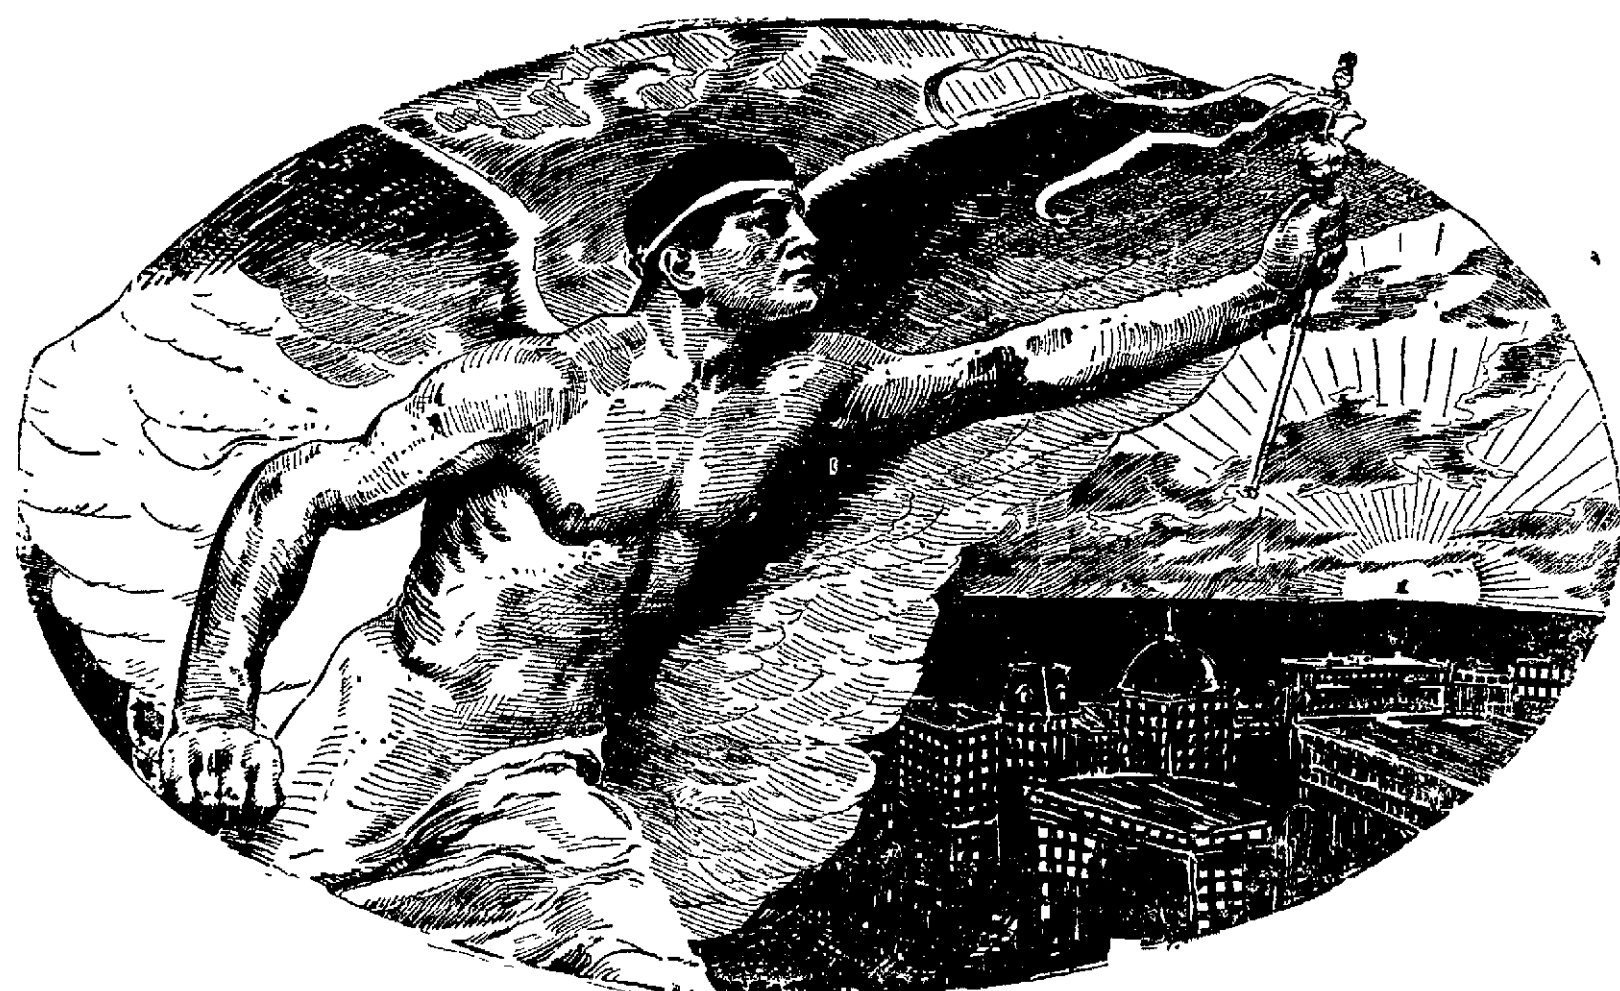

Arthur Peabody, state architect is designing the plans for the building to be erected near the present football stadium on ground now used for university tennis courts.

The committee has decided that the seating capacity of the structure shall be 14,000, and the building will be designed to meet the university's needs for both intramural and intercollegiate activities.

Director Little feels that the field house will be a large revenue producer and the funds derived from basketball games, and other indoor activities will meet the interests on the bond issues with which it is proposed to finance the construction.

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter 814 W. Mycellus Ave., Manassas, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

SAFETY EXPERT POINTS OUT HAZARDS ON FARM

COUNTRY TAKES DEATH TOLL AS WELL AS CITY

Fires, Machinery and Animals Just as Fatal as Mills and Factories

The silent, open spaces of the country have their dangers and take their toll of deaths and injuries, as do the busy, noisy factories and mills of the city.

There are fires on the farm, there is machinery and there are sharp tools and unsteady animals just as dangerous as the grinding gears of the factory, and the speeding automobiles of the city streets.

As a warning to the farmer and his country folk, therefore, the Delaware Safety Council and Marian L. Telford, field secretary of the National Safety Council, have issued instructions for making the country safe for its inhabitants.

"It is estimated that annually 4000 agricultural fatalities occur and that there are 50,000 major and minor accidents among farm people," says Miss Telford.

"Carelessness, overwork and child labor probably cause the majority of accidents," she adds. "Farm hands fail to throw a machine out of gear or fail to unhitch their team before they begin to adjust the machine."

FOUR KINDS OF TROUBLE
Miss Telford puts the hazards of the farm into four classes: building hazards, mechanical hazards, animal hazards and recreational hazards.

Under building hazards she lists: insufficient lightning protection, ungrounded telephone wires and fences, defective chimneys and flues, hot air furnaces and stoves, wooden roofs, kerosene and other oil lighting, matches left carelessly about, smoking in barns, sparks from locomotives, spontaneous combustion in hay and grain.

In addition, she includes falls from poorly built ladders, slippery steps, unprotected eaves and dark, cluttered passages ways.

LIVESTOCK UNSAFE
Mechanical hazards include all resulting from carelessness with movable machinery, open gears and unbraked horses. Small tools with loose handles or sharp-cutting edges also cause such hazards.

Farmers know the dangers of working with livestock—the fretful horse, the nervous bull and even the apparently quiet cow during milking. Miss Telford warns workers of these animals and their vagaries, and insists on the importance of extreme care in handling all animals.

Play in the country is as dangerous as in the city, she points out, and she sets forth the hazards of auto driving, of fishing, swimming, hunting and even the peaceful gatherings in country schoolhouses, where there is still danger of fire.

For all these she has a general warning of safety.

"Adjustments on machines," she advises, "should not be made while the machines are in motion. All possible adjustments should be made before the horses are attached. Various horses should not be used, particularly by children."

"All equipment should be inspected regularly and kept in good repair. Children should not be allowed to work or play around animals or machinery."

ST. PAUL ROAD TRAFFIC MAN SEES BRIGHT FUTURE

It. M. Calkins, chief traffic officer of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, who recently returned from an extensive trip, wrote A. W. Liese, local agent of the railroad, expressing great enthusiasm about the business prospects in the northwest states.

"In talking with farmers, our various agents, heads of agricultural colleges, bankers, and others in position to give reliable information," Mr. Calkins said, "I found the sentiment more optimistic and this optimism more widespread than at any time since the dark days following the war."

"One indication of the present state of prosperity in that section of the country is the fact that a train of 30 big freight cars loaded with Overland and Willys-Knight autos left Chicago over the Milwaukee route Sunday, all destined to points in Montana, Idaho, and eastern Washington."

"Merchants and manufacturers in other sections, especially in the central west, are interested in the imminent return of prosperous conditions in the Northwest and in the Milwaukee road's plans for a more intensive campaign this year to aid in the development of the limitless resources of this great territory."

U. S. GIVES NEW RADIO SERVICE FOR FARMERS

Washington — The new radio service of the United States department of agriculture, organized by Sum Pickard, chief of radio, includes three novel farm features, all departures from customary methods of presenting information by radio.

The "Farm News Digest," available bi-weekly to all radio broadcasting stations, consists of short items of agricultural news selected from several hundred current publications most of which are not accessible to the average farm reader.

"Fifty Farm Flashes" is a daily service, consisting of 50 timely, practical questions put by farmers and tersely answered by agricultural authorities.

For the women of the household a "Housekeeper's Half Hour" is on the air. Plans for "The Radio Order of Junior Gardeners" is under way.

MIXED SEEDING IS BEST, SAYS COUNTY AGENT

Yields Larger Production Than "Straight" Seeding, Says Amundson

Results of an experiment completed last year by R. A. Amundson, county agricultural agent, and A. H. Wright of the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, to determine the advantage if any, of seeding grain mixtures instead of grain "straight," were announced by Mr. Amundson this week.

The men worked out a series of experimental plots with grain seeded alone and with various grain mixtures. Eighteen plots were measured off on the farm of Herman Maas, Seymour. Eight were seeded straight and 10 were seeded with mixtures.

In the fall the plots were harvested, threshed and all the grain separated and weighed to determine the proportionate yield. In every case the mixtures yielded more per acre of each grain than when that grain was seeded alone. Oats and barley when seeded together yielded 25 per cent more than either oats alone or barley alone.

By mixing flax and oats the yield of each 22 per cent more than the plots where each was grown separately. Mixtures of oats and wheat

ABUNDANCE OF HEMLOCK TREES CROWDING PINES

Missoula, Mont.—Hemlock trees are increasing in the northern Rockies and crowding out the more valuable species of white pine.

The average lumberman takes the white pine, larch and Douglas fir and leaves the hemlock and white fir standing.

These survivors are aggressive competitors of the remaining trees. Their dense shade and their own prolific powers of reproduction discourage and choke out the white pine seedlings.

Experiments are being conducted in young forests of new growth 20 to 25 years old, where hemlock comprises approximately 85 per cent of the stand, to cut out considerable quantities of the hemlock and free the white pine.

Girdling the full grown trees before the white pine is logged is one method that has been tried, but the results were generally unsatisfactory.

I was told by the heating engineers that it would require about 20 tons of high-priced fuel to heat this home.

When your representative called on me and said that it would take about twelve tons of fuel with Flax-li-num applied as he recommended, I ordered my contractor to apply Flax-li-num as per specifications.

Now, I beg to advise you that I have used but 13 tons of coal each season; this is a saving of seven tons over what my heating engineers said I would have to use.

ABUNDANCE OF HEMLOCK TREES CROWDING PINES

Missoula, Mont.—Hemlock trees are increasing in the northern Rockies and crowding out the more valuable species of white pine.

The average lumberman takes the white pine, larch and Douglas fir and leaves the hemlock and white fir standing.

These survivors are aggressive competitors of the remaining trees. Their dense shade and their own prolific powers of reproduction discourage and choke out the white pine seedlings.

Experiments are being conducted in young forests of new growth 20 to 25 years old, where hemlock comprises approximately 85 per cent of the stand, to cut out considerable quantities of the hemlock and free the white pine.

Girdling the full grown trees before the white pine is logged is one method that has been tried, but the results were generally unsatisfactory.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Truffle Hunter's House

As soon as the square wooden door opened, June said to the Twins, "Well, you know a lot more than we did when we came, that's one thing certain."

"He gave us very good advice," I think," said Nance. "We know where the Blue Cherry Tree grows at last. He said it grew on Cherry Lane, and behind the Truffle Hunter's House."

"That's correct," added June, "and fortunately I know where the Truffle Hunter lives. He lives just in front of Cherry Bounce Hill."

The Twins laughed at this which pleased June very much. He was certainly a friendly kangaroo and wanted the Twins to be happy.

"Now we're all right," he went on, "as long as Blue Whiskers doesn't get after us. He had no right to treat you the way he did after you told him such funny stories. And I hope that Paddyfoot, the bear, will not have to stay a mouse long. We shall have to think how we can get him turned into a bear again."

"Oh, thank you, sir! I'm sure I hope so too!" squeaked a tiny voice and they were all astonished to see a mouse stick his nose out of June's pocket and look suspiciously at them with his funny sharp eyes. "I'm Paddyfoot," he explained. "When Blue Whiskers chased you, I followed, and when you jumped into your magic automobile, I jumped too, and then I crawled into your pocket."

"Oh, Paddyfoot!" cried Nick. "We're ever so glad you're along, but we're ever so sorry you were turned from a big black bear into a tiny mouse. And you always so kind and obliging too!"

"To tell the truth," said Paddyfoot, "I was so glad to get away, I don't mind being a mouse for a while. All I did from morning till night was to go to the pantry and get the buns and constitution out of the sugar barrel for Old Blue Whiskers. He never could remember what the laws were. Not that he wanted to keep them. He just wanted to break them."

"We're going to the house of the Truffle Hunter," said June. "You may come along if you like, Paddyfoot. You may be of use."

"Thank you," said Paddyfoot, "and love to go."

So away they all went, and in about fifteen minutes they came to the house of the Truffle Hunter.

"Here we are! All out!" called June as he stepped the automobile.

So the Twins got out and they all went up the steps of the Truffle Hunter's house and rang the bell.

And pretty soon the door opened and there stood a man with a very long nose.

Of course a lot of people have long noses, and the Twins had met many old people on their travels who had extremely long noses, but this one was a nose of nose, for it went nearly to the ground.

"I'm sorry, but I couldn't find any truffles today, my friends," he began when he saw them. "I have a cold and I can't smell so well. Did you wish a pound or a half a pound?"

"We're not after truffles," explained June hastily. "We came on another errand and we thought perhaps you might help us."

"So I may," said the Truffle Hunter obligingly. "Just so I don't have to use my nose. You see truffles grow under the ground, and there is no way of telling where they are unless one can smell cleverly. If one has a good smell he can always find them. All one has to do is to smell where a truffle is and then dig down and get it. They are very delicious—truffles are—fine with minced chicken or to serve on toast."

"Won't you sit down now and tell me your errand?" said the Truffle Hunter politely.

"Certainly," said June. "We're after the Blue Cherry Tree on Cherry Bounce Hill."

John followed the interne out of the reception room. I declined to go with them. Little Marquise, because I thought it was better to keep out of everything that I could. When my husband returned, I knew by his face he was further reassured.

"Young Hastings is a very decent sort of a chap, Leslie. He acknowledges that he was wholly to blame. He told me his father had telegraphed this morning that he would be there this afternoon and the hospital authorities think the girl will be able to be removed to her home tomorrow. It seems that the young couple are about to be married and Hastings had come on from Philadelphia to arrange the plans with the young woman's father and mother. Don't you think it would be a good plan for us to stop for Mrs. Atherton on our way to the office? It is still early, you know."

The moment we got into Sally's little drawing room, Jack blurted out: "That boy and girl will leave the hospital tomorrow. So you see, Mrs. Atherton, everything is coming out all right after all."

"Is it?" answered Sally, ambiguously. "Listen to this. As I told you I would, I called up Maggie Simpson this morning. I wanted to catch her before she started for the office. 'A man came to the phone and informed me, in a gruff voice, that Miss Simpson was not going to the office today.' 'Is she ill?' I inquired. 'No, he answered, 'who is it, that wants to know?' 'Mr. Prescott's secretary,' was my reply. 'That's a lie,' he affirmed, in an ugly tone of voice. 'My daughter Maggie is Prescott's secretary and I am just preparing to go down to the office to just let him know that he cannot jeopardize the good name of my daughter without hearing from me about it.' John gasped. He didn't seem quite so sure of himself now. 'What's that? Tell me again. What did he say?' he asked thickly, as soon as he got his voice. Sally repeated the words. 'But, but,' stammered Jack, 'he didn't mean it. He's bluffing. Why, I was only trying to be good to his daughter and if she told the truth, he knows it. I tell you, he was only bluffing.' 'No, I don't think he was. It is quite evident the man has seen the newspapers, in which it says that the woman with Mr. Prescott was his stenographer, Margarita Simpson. Whatever his daughter told him, after seeing that, he would believe the worst.' 'What did you say to him?' I questioned Sally. 'I didn't say anything. I just rang off.' Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Heretofore, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy, stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes and fermentsations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. In fact upon "Phillips" taken five or ten bottles, any drug store.
